Rules and Regulations for the Utilization of KUNRF Services for Funded Research Project

Services:

Services offered by KUNRF for a funded research project are intended to provide scientific laboratory support that is aimed to help the investigator in reaching research objectives goals, particularly in the areas of Materials Science and Engineering and Nanotechnology. KUNRF provides these services for funded projects in order to foster the growth of research activities within Kuwait University. Therefore, the desired end-result of such studies is to produce publications.

Rules and Regulations:

- 1- KUNRF Services provided to funded research project are only available for investigators affiliated with Kuwait University.
- 2- Laboratory equipment is only operated by KUNRF staff. Yet, the investigator is welcome to witness the test and make recommendations (if applicable).
- 3- Analysis and interpretation of the test results is the responsibility of investigator.
- 4- Use of the equipment in KUNRF is subject to availability of equipment and consumables. Some equipment may require costly consumables. Please consult with the KUNRF staff for more details.
- 5- The investigator must fill a request form for the equipment intended to use in the study. Request forms for equipment are available either at the KUNRF Laboratories (first floor of Building KH 8, College of Engineering & Petroleum) or via KUNRF website.
- 6- The investigator must be able to supply samples to the lab that are either ready for testing, or can be readied using our available tools for sample preparation. Please consult with the KUNRF staff for more details.
- 7- In the case of a publication that resulted from the funded research project, the investigator is kindly asked to submit a copy of the published work.
